DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 6 to 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

I. In claim 6, line 5; claim 7, line 12; claim 8, line 16; claim 9, line 5; claim 10, line 12 and claims 11, line 16, the meanings of the phrases, " 'final cold rolling reduction ratio' " and " 'final annealing temperature' " are not clear. The significance of enclosing these terms in quotation marks is not clear. This rejection can be overcome by deleting the quotation marks appearing in the claims.

II. In claims 7 and 10, lines 4 and 7; the meaning of the term "Z-system" is not clear. The Examiner questions whether this phrase should be --Zn-system-- as recited in claim 8, line 7?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1 to 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Koji et al. (Koji '601, Japanese Patent Document No. 11-140601, cited in the IDS submitted January 25, 2006).

Koji '601 teaches steel sheets and plated steel sheets having compositions that overlap the steel composition recited in applicants' claims wherein the steel sheets have a ferrite grain size of 10 to 30 microns which is encompassed by the instantly claimed grain size of 10 to 100 microns (see Koji '601's Abstract). Koji '601 also teaches specific examples of steels having compositions and ferrite grain sizes that are encompassed by the instant claims (see Table 2, Examples 13, 15 and 16). Koji '601 also teaches a process comprising hot rolling, coiling the hot rolled steel at greater than or equal to 700°C, final cold rolling, annealing the cold rolled steel at greater than 750°C and hot dipped galvanizing the steel (Abstract).

Art Unit: 1793

The claims and Koji '601 differ in that Koji '601 is silent with respect to yield stress and the permeability of the steel product.

However, one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would have considered the invention to have been obvious because the example alloys taught by the reference have alloy compositions and ferrite grain sizes that are encompassed by the instant claims and are made by a process which is substantially the same as applicants' process of making the instantly claimed alloy. In view of this, the alloy taught by the reference would be expected to possess all the same properties as recited in the instant claims. In re Best, 195 USPQ, 430 and MPEP 2112.01.

"Where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). 'When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not.' In re Spada, 15 USPQ2d 655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). Therefore, the prima facie case can be rebutted by evidence showing that the prior art products do not necessarily possess the characteristics of the claimed product. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977)." see MPEP 2112.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless —

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

8. Claims 6 to 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Koji et al. (Koji '601, Japanese Patent Document No. 11-140601, cited in the IDS submitted January 25, 2006).

Koji '601 teaches as set forth above.

Applicants' claimed process encompasses the process taught by Koji '601.
